

Headphones

These professional closed headphones will withstand any amount of rough treatment. The unbreakable headband features lavish padding, and has an ergonomic shape. The steel braided cable connection used is specially designed to provide protection of the inter connection of the various components of the headphone communications system.

The system has proved to be much more resistant to vandalism, maintains much greater continuity of service, is easy to fit on site, and has substantially reduced installation and replacement costs. The BB800HP is particularly well suited for applications in retail, museum and other high usage applications.
